

Comic by Marci McAdam

The comic was produced from Marci McAdam, especially for the SSP journal. Marci is a self-taught Canadian artist, with a Bachelor of Education from the University of Calgary. She lives in Calgary with her sons and her very best friend. Her work has appeared in books, educational publications, comics, logos and in private collections internationally. Her homepage is worth a visit: <http://www.frithcat.com>.

Author: Marci McAdam

The comic is a short story about hygiene behavior. It shows the importance of hand washing after touching animals and/or using a toilet. A small boy is petting his beloved animals, before touching his mother's skirt. Microbs are transferred via the skirt to the family's meal, which is making all family members sick.

Alvaro and his family have a pig and a chicken. Alvaro likes to play with them.

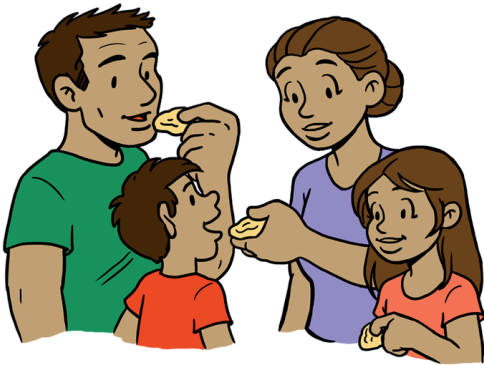

When Alvaro fell and hurt himself, Mama comforted him. Alvaro's dirty hands got Mama's skirt dirty.

Mama went back to making the family meal.

The meal was delicious!

But afterward, everyone got sick

How can you keep yourself and your family healthy?

Always wash your hands after using the latrine, before preparing food, and before eating!

